or him. The opposition comes principally rom the friends of Senator Cullom, who do not plieve in giving the vote of the State to a "squatter." as one of them termed it, when a favored son of Illinois is in the field for indorsement. Five delegates from the interior counties have already broken away, I am assured, and if the fight develops into the usual party contest in this State, with Cook county against all others, the result will seriously impair Judge Greeham's chances. The opposition are not making any noise, for obvious reasons, but they are busily at work. It looks now as if Gresham would run about equal with Depew in the matter of votes on the formal balloting, both being led by Senator Sherman, who will get all of 275 votes at the lowest calculation. The second ballot will bring Gresham more strength from the Northwest, placing him midway between Sherman and Depew, with Harrison, Allison and Alger still in a bunch far behind. General Harrison, who is promised support from New York, New Jersey and Conpecticut, will be the first of these to show an morease of votes, and if the Pacific Slope delegates turn in for him he will at once become a formidable, if not a winning, candidate. Gen-ral Michener claims for Harrison a large fol-owing in Ohio should Sherman ever withdraw.

The Voice of Indiana. Muncie Times. Over seventy countles, and all of the thirteen songressional districts have said that so far as carrying this State is concerned, General Har-rison is the man. The township, county, dis-trict and State conventions have passed resolu-tions indersing his condidacy and instructing delegates for him. Not one of the present delegates would have been selected to the Chicago convention had he not been in favor of General Harrison. This is no criticism upon the judgment of those who think otherwise. no dispar agement of the claims of others. The voice of Indiana Republicans being so freely and so emphatically pronounced, it would appear that they have sense enough to know their own minds wishout the aid or dictation of free-trade, mugwump, and Democratic papers, within or without the State. The Republicans who are for General Harrison can give good reasons for being for him. He is an original kepubin 1856, and there has not been a campaign in Indiana since that time, whether Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Garfield or Blaine were candidates, but that he was ready to take the stump for them as being representatives of the principles of the Republican party. A man in favor of protect-ing home industries and home men, be they white or black, rich or poor, native or foreign born. He was an able lawyer before the war, a gallant soldier during the war, and a distinguished statesman since the war, with a politi cal record unbismished, and a private character unspetted. In fact, he is in every way equipped to make a most acceptable leader in the race and a most excellent President when elect ed. No man, however, is greater than his partp. and if General Harrison is not the man to secure the most votes after the nomination, his friends should, and will do all in their power to make the election of the nominee of the Chicago convention just as sure as though the honor had fallen upon their choice, and General Harrison will be found in this campaign as in the past working for the nominee of his party. Doing Its Duty.

Minois State Journal. The Indianapolis Journal is making a gallant Aght for ex-Senator Ben Harrison, its choice for President of the United States. This is its right, and if it beliaves General Harrison to be the strongest man before the country, that he is capable of securing the largest vote in case of his nomination, and will make an able executive If elected, it is its duty to support him with all the power it can command.

This Is Not True.

Minneapolis Journal The Indiana district delegates were all elected before any special effort had been made to bring out Judge Gresham as a candidate, and there was no other candidate in the field in Indiana except Harrison. Notwithstanding all this it appears that ten or twelve of the twenty-six district delegates and three of the delegates atlarge would prefer Gresham, and would vote for him on the first ballot if they had not been Instructed for Harrison.

Other Expressions.

Vincennes Commercial: The record of General Harrison is clean, and there are no closets to open in his history that will show gripning Vernon Banner: Since Blaine's last letter the East is turning more and more to General Harrison as the one man who combines all the elements of a strong candidate. Vincennes Commercial: General Harrison's friends are rallying to the front just at the right time. The boom is striking the country just right, and it is quite certain that Harrison is second to none in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

Columbus Republican: Notwithstanding the almost unanimous judgment of Democratic newspapers and politicians that Harrison is a very weak man for the Republican candidate, the Republicans are going steadily, on seemingly determined to nominate him.

Vincennes Commercial: No candidate in the field to day has the indersement of his State so completely and with such unreserved unanimity as has Harrison. This fact carries weight with delegates throughout the whole Union. Harrison is the most prominent candidate in the field

Connersville Times: If Republicans really de-sire to elect their President, they should not fail to select a candidate who is dead sure to carry Indiana. Ben Harrison is the man. There would be no risk in him whatever, as far as Indian is concerned, and he is as strong in

New York, New Jersey and Connecticut as any Richmond Palladium: There are no Repubican factions in Indiana. There never was a time when the Republicans of Indiana were more united and freer from anything like faction. The nomines of the Chicago convention, whoever he may be, will receive the solid Republican vote of the State, but if the Republicans of Indiana are given the candidate whom they have united as with one voice in demand ine, they will secure for him even more than the full Republican vote. Owen County Journal: One of the best indi-cations of the strength of General Harrison as a presidential candidate is the almost unanimous effort of the Democratic papers to deleat him for the nomination at Chicago. Their effort for Greeham can deceive no one. They want Gresham nominated because of his well-known weakness, and Harrison defeated for his well-known strength in Indiana. Under these circumstances the duty of Indiana Republicans is plain, and they will stand by Harrison. They will not allow the Democrats to dictate the Chieago nomination. They are not taking orders from Cleveland.

How Voorhees Made a Point.

St. Louis Chronicle. When Senator Voorhees was nominating Governor Gray in the Democratic national cantions to earry the country for the ticket without Indiana would be futile.

"I know of certain calculations now being made to leave Indians out." "Oregon!" abouted a deleate.

Some one halloes Oregon," said Senator Voorhees, after a short pause. Then he continued impressively, with arm extended towards the delegates. 'Take warning by Oregon and rely upon Indiana, and you will not be deceiv-

The interruption and Senator Voorhees's com-ment upon it visibly affected the delegates, alhough it did not moderate the Thurman enafterwards, was complimented upon the aptness he had shown in making the reference to the Oregon defeat an argument for his candidate. Oregon defeat an argument for his candidate.

James L. Mahaney, the standard-bearer of the County Democracy of New York, told a reporter at the Southern Hotel, after the convention, that a delegate named Starke, from Indiana, was the man who shouted "Oregon!" at Senator Voorhees, and that he had done it by arrangement with the Senator himself. This man told the New Yorker that Voorhees had prepared his nominating speech very carefully, and had intended to allude to the Democratic defeat in Oregon himself.

On the morning before the convention Starke

On the morning before the convention Starke had a talk with the Senator and Voorhees told him of his intention, saying that he had changed his mind about the Oregon warring, and thought it would have more effect if it was introduced as if by accident. Voorhees then gave Starke his one and "Oregon" was introduced at the proper time.

But One Interpretation. Sen Francisco Chronicle.

The platform of the Democratic party for 1888 is Grover Cleveland, nothing more nor less; and, in spite of all the cunningly turned phrases of the platform and all its attempts at darkening struct by the people as a free-trade declaration, and upon that issue the party must stand or fall at the coming election.

IN FAVOR OF GEN. HARRISON

His Home Friends Watching with Keen Interest Developments at Chicago.

Their Enthusiasm Is Growing and His Nomination They Count On as the One Essential with Which to Achieve Victory.

The current talk on the atreets yesterday referred altogether to the Chicago convention and the centering of forces in the interest of General Harrison. No mention of the great event was made without bringing the General's name in connection with the presidency. This would in every group lead to high encomiums upon his character as a man and statesman. Everybody had some tribute to pay to his excellence and prediction to make that if he is nominated Indiana was as certain to give from 10,000 to 15,-000 Republican majority as the coming of convention day. On Pennsylvania street, in front of a stairway leading to a lawyers's office, during the afternoon, were five Republicans talking about the convention and the probabilities. Each one had something to relate concerning Harrison's strength and popularity. "There would not be a weak point in his candidacy,' said one of the group. "Harrison is all we want," another remarked. "His nomination," added the third, "will give the Indiana Republicans such nerve and enthusiasm that they will be content with nothing less than carrying the State by the largest majority that has ever been obtained by any party in Indiana." So assented the fourth and hith of the group. A half square away were three more earnestly conversing in the same strain, and in the throng on Washington street in a five minutes' walk the reporter for a moment only, stopped a dozen or more men in turn. Each gave testimony as to the hopefulness or as often to the confidence be feit in General Harrison's success, supplementing it perhaps by praise and expressions of esteem. There was such a determined, zealous, and enthusiastic Harrison sentiment every-where, that it only required the certainty of his nomination to cause the city to be turned inside out in manifestations of delight.

Among the Democrats who admire General Harrison is State-house Commissioner Nelson, who said, yesterday, that, as he is a Democrat, he is for Cleveland, but if a Republican must be elected he would rather see General Harrison in the presidential chair than any one else.

J. M. Westcott, president of the Broad Rip-ple Gas Company, thinks that Harrison for President would make Indiana as certainly Republican as lowa. The Democrats, in his judgment, would practically give it up under such The executive committee of the Harrison Club will meet this morning at 9 o'clock in the office of Wright's Block, to make arrangements for the reception of Southern delegates, who are expected to pass through the city. The Kentucky. CLOSE OF THE EDUCATIONAL YEAR.

The Art Exhibition of the High-School Draw. ing Classes.

The second annual exhibit of the work of the drawing classes of the High-school took place in the chapel of that building yesterday afternoon and evening. There was a large attendancemostly of ladies and young people. The walls of the room were covered with two hundred or more sketches, which represented the first year's work of twenty-four scholars. The young artists confined their efforts to pencil, crayon and charcoal. At the first of the year the pupils began with simple straight lines. and gradually developed until they could paint any object piaced before them. The drawing department of the high-school is under the charge of Miss Roda E Sellick, and to her is due great credit for the success of the class.

The exhibit was a great improvement over that of last year, and indicates what may be expected from the introduction of drawing into sults, to say nothing of the practical benefits that are to be derived. Although the work of the class has been confined mostly to crayon sketches, many of these are of decided merit and attracted much praise from the visitors. A crayon study of a large dog's head, by Miss Myrilla Anderson, perhaps received as much praise as anything in the room. She had other decidedly creditable pieces—one of them a gypsy head. Miss Margaret Roberts had a number of lovely studies in lilies and other flowers, besides ten or a dozen well-finished sketches from pature. Miss Lelma Nephacher also had from nature. Miss Lelma Neubacher also had two very highly finished crayon sketches—one a basket of corn, the other a hen's nest, while Miss Lucy Jacobe had a beautiful crayon study of a book and flowers, which was entirely unlike anything else on exhibit and was thought by many the most attractive piece. A pretty ma-rine view of pastel work by Miss Nellie Franklin, and a similar piece of work representing a land scene, elicited many complimentary comments.

Miss Grace Whitridge had a number of excellent charcoal sketches, and was the only one who had essayed water-coloring, of which class of work she exhibited three or four excellent specimens. A srayen study of grapes, by Miss Carrie Boyles, and another of a bunch of bananae, by Miss Lillie Stanley, attracted immediate attention from art students, as did a erayon study of an eagle, by Miss Nellie Wells.

There were good displays of cast work
by Misses Bessie Ray and Monta Singer,
Miss Ray also had an astractive ocean view.
Miss Singer, too, had a large picture of the old State-house. Miss Lillie David and Mollie Kelles had a prestry display of general crayon and State-house. Miss Lillie David and Mollie Keller had a pretty display of general crayon and charcoal work, and Misses Ida Crane, Bertha Bryan. Ella Saltmarsh and In-z Adams presented special studies of east. Misses Jessie Daggett and Mattie Habisch had a good selection of crayon, pencil and charcoal work.

One of the ways in which the class has obtained pleasure and profit was by organizing a sketching club, which in the winter time would meet at the home of Miss Selleck, and during meet at the home of Miss Selleck, and during the season of pleasant weather would make pleasant excursions into the country. This soctery has thirteen members. Its president is Miss Grace Whitridge. One side of the room was given over yesterday to the work of this sketch club in reproducing scenes about Millers-ville, Haughville, Broad Ripple and other places artistically attractive. Many of these sketches have been referred to, but none are more complete and attractive than those of Miss Sarah

A group of drawings which forcibly indicates the advancement that can be made in a short time by a bright pupil is that by Miss Ada Walter, who in a half year has progressed from the simple, straight lines to a finely-finished study in crayon. Edgar H. Evans, who is preparing to enter the Terre Haute Polytechnic, has a fine large group of objects made by point in crayon. It is this class of work for which the school becomes a practical benefit. The object is to train the young men in free-hand work, which is one of the most essential features of manual work in nearly all colleges. The only trouble with the system as conducted here at present appears to be the limited amount of time devoted to its instruction. It certainly presents a valuable field for

Along with the display of the drawing-school was that of the training-school, under charge of Miss Nicholson. It has eleven members, and from the excellent quality of their work as exhibited yesterday, it may be inferred that the school is making fair advancement.

ATTEMPT AT MURDER AND SUICIDE

A Drunken Negro Shoots an Equally Low

White Woman and Then Kills Himself. Dissipation and jealousy were the causes of an attempted murder and after that a suicide in a hovel at No. 251 Virginia avenue yesterday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock, when George Taylor, a colored man, shot Belle Brown, a white woman, twice and then put two bullets into his own body with fatal result. The house in which the tragedy was enacted is occupied by a colored woman named Clara Bell, who earns her living by washing for the families in the neighborhood. Yesterday morning she employed the Brown woman to assist her in her work, and their washing materials were moved out under a tree in the front yard. Early in the morning Taylor went there and told the Brown woman he would like to have a talk with her. She refused to speak to him but he remained near by all forenoon, and frequently resumed his efforts to have a conversation with her. He went away a short time about noon, and when he returned again requested an nterview with her. He seemed to be drinking considerably, and while he was watching the women work he frequently muttered threats against the life of Mrs. Brown. A little after 3 o'clock Mrs. Bell bad occasion to go into the house, which left Mrs. Brown and the negro alone in the yard. Just after she had entered the house Taylor drew out a revolver, and, advancing toward Mrs. Brown, said, "Now, I am going to kill you." The woman started to run, and as she did so Taylor fired two shots at her. One struck her in the hip, and the other made a slight scalp wound. With Taylor still attemptalight scalp wound. With Taylor still attempting to get another shot at her, she ran into the kitchen by the side door, and from there into another room. Taylor followed her until he reached the door leading from the kitchen into the house proper, and finding she had fastened it he halted and shot himself twice through the heart. Captain Colbert was called from the station-house, but the negro died soon after he arrived. The wounded woman was taken to the City Hospital, and while he wounds are serious, it is thought she will recover. it is thought she will recover.

Both Mrs. Brown and Taylor have very unsavory reputations. He came to the city from Crawfordsville three or four years ago, and soon afterward became intimate with the woman; who was a vicious character. They both frequently figured in the police court, until finally, about two years ago. Taylor was convicted of larceny and sentenced to the penitentiary for one year. Since his release he has been attempting to renew his intimacy with the woman, but she seemed disposed to lead a better life and would have nothing to do with him. Two weeks ago he had her arrested on a trumped-up charge, and she was released by the Mayor. Since then he has been continually dogging her foot-steps and threstening to do her bodily harm unless she would renew her friend-ship for him. Recently Mrs. Brown has been making her home at No. 80 South Delaware street, and doing work wherever she could get it. Taylor was indoleut and a drunkard, and has not been engaged at any regular labor since his return from the penitentiary. His body was taken in charge by undertaker Kregelo.

A "Put and Call." This is a funny phrase to the uninitiated, but all the brokers understand it. They use it when a person gives a certain per cent. for the option of buying or selling stock on a fixed day, at a price stated on the day the option is given. It is often a serious operation to the dealer-but there is a more serious "put and call" than this:
when you are "put" to bed with a severe cold

INDIANAPOLIS JOURNAL

Beginning with Sunday morning, June 17, and continuing until after the adjournment of the convention, THE JOURNAL will run a Fast Special Newspaper Train from Indianapolis to Chicago, over the "Monon" route, reaching the latter city not later than 9 A. M. This will accommodate the thousands of Indianians who will be in Chicago, and enable them to get the news as it relates to Indiana's candidate in complete form and it an early hour.

This is the fastest newspaper trai run in this country, the schedule showing a rate of nearly fifty miles an hour.

Lots of Grit Is admirable in a warrior, but abominable in a dentifrice. This destructive component many tooth powders and pastes contain. Use for the teeth Sozodont only, popular for over thirty years, and a liquid of delightful fragrance which purifies the breath.

DRINE Malto; 25 cents a bottle. A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semifluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals. and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membraneous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. Sanford's Radical Cure, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed. Even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered and the disease thoroughly driven out."

Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent and one lmproved Inhaler, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.
